INTRODUCTION.

THIS work has been undertaken, from a belief that something of the kind is wanted, by citizens and strangers, as a book of reference, and guide to the numerous business concerns of this extensive city. Philadelphia as it is, comprises every information which may be required, and which, it is believed, cannot be obtained elsewhere without much loss of time.

It occupies a place hitherto unattempted, and forms a complete manual for the merchant and traveller, presenting a statistical view of the city, with the most important and useful details for the more frequent subjects of inquiry. Great labour has been bestowed in collecting and arranging the materials, and the general accuracy of the work can be depended on. Omissions must, of course, be expected, in a first attempt; and the publisher will be thankful to gentlemen who will point out any errors, which will be corrected in future editions.

DESCRIPTION OF PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, the second city in size in the United States, stands between the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers, five miles above their junction, in lat. $39^{\circ} 57'$ N. and long. $75^{\circ} 10' 59''$ from Greenwich, and is about 120 miles distant from the Atlantic ocean by the course of the river. The city was founded by William Penn, in the year 1682. The original design of the proprietor would have covered an area of more than twelve square miles, but by his charter of 1701, the plot of the city was contracted and declared to be bounded by the two rivers, an extent of about two miles east and west, and on the north and south by Vine and Cedar streets, an extent of about one mile. But the progress of improvements, long since broke beyond these limited boundaries, and now we behold the city compactly built along the Delaware nearly four miles, though for municipal purposes, the boundaries of the city proper remain unaltered. The city is divided into the following districts:—the corporations of the city of Philadelphia, of the Northern Liberties, Kensington, Spring Garden, Southwark and Moyamensing. The whole number of streets in the city and districts is about six hundred, varying much in width, Arch street being sixty feet, Market street one hundred, Broad street one hundred and thirteen, while others are much narrower.

GOVERNMENT.

The first municipal officers were appointed by the Proprietary, but the people soon manifested their disapprobation of a system of government in which they had no share, and manifold were the complaints to the General Assembly of the abuses practised under it. On the revolution, this unpopular charter was abrogated by the General Assembly, and the city remained under the provincial government until 1789, when it was a second time incorporated. This charter continued in force until the year 1796, when the present system was established.

The government of the city proper is vested in a Mayor, Recorder, and fifteen Aldermen, a Select and Common Council, besides subordinate executive officers.

Mayor.—Under the act of incorporation of 1789, the Mayor was annually elected by the Aldermen from their own body; the act of 1796, invested the Select and Common Councils, with the power to elect, and by a supplement passed April 10, 1826, the Councils were no longer restricted in their choice to the body of Aldermen, but were authorized to elect annually any citizen of the city, to the office of Mayor. He is authorized to issue warrants to any part of the county of Philadelphia, for the apprehension of persons charged with having committed any offence within the city; subpœnas to any part of the state, and also writs of capias into any county, for the apprehension of any person indicted or outlawed, for felonies committed within the city. He has the appointment of all the officers of the corporation, except the City Treasurer, and the Clerks and Messengers of the Councils. His salary is two thousand dollars a year, and he cannot hold any office under the United States government pending his term.

The Recorder of the City under the act of 1789, was elected by the Mayor and Aldermen, for the term of seven years, but by the act of 1796, the appointing power was vested in the governor of the state, and being in a strict sense a judge, he holds his office during good behaviour. He is vested with the powers of a Justice of the Peace, and Justice of Oyer and Terminer, and General Gaol delivery for the city. He receives a salary from the state, and also from the city, and his office is incompatible with offices under the United States.

Aldermen. There are fifteen Aldermen appointed by the Governor, who are invested with the powers of Justices of the Peace, and have jurisdiction of all causes of action arising from contract, where the sum demanded is not above one hundred dollars, except where the title to lands may come in question, or actions upon promise of marriage. They hold their commissions during good behaviour.

Mayor's Court has the same criminal jurisdiction over offences committed within the city as the Sessions has for the county. It is held by the Mayor, Recorder and Aldermen, or any three or more of them, whereof the Mayor or Recorder shall be one. The Mayor presides when present.

Councils. The whole legislative power of the corporation is exclusively vested in the Select and Common Councils, who are annually chosen by the people on the second Tuesday in October. They receive no compensation, sit in separate chambers, and each body has a negative on the legislative acts of the other.

The Common Council consists of twenty members, elected from such citizens as are qualified to serve as members of the House of Representatives.

The Select Council is composed of twelve members, from citizens qualified to serve as senators of this commonwealth. They are chosen for three years, are divided into three classes, and vacate their seats in rotation, so that one third may be chosen every year.

PUBLIC SQUARES.

The various public squares, reserved in the original plan of the city, evince the foresight and judgment of William Penn. They are not only conducive to health, by promoting a free circulation of air, but are pleasant places for recreation to the citizens, during the heat of the summer.

Independence Square, which extends from Chesnut street to Walnut street, and from Fifth to Sixth streets, is tastefully laid out in gravelled walks, delightfully shaded by indigenous and exotic trees, and enclosed by a substantial iron railing. It is thrown open to the public as a promenade, and is a place of general resort. This square is 398 feet from east to west, and 470 feet from north to south.

Washington Square, extends from Sixth street to Washington street, 456 feet, and from Walnut street to Locust street, 370 feet. This square was formerly Potter's Field, but is now laid out in delightful walks, and is planted with a variety of beautiful trees. It is surrounded by a row of flourishing Linden trees, planted on a line with the curbstone of the street, and is also a place of general resort.

Franklin Square lies between Race and Vine streets, and Sixth and Franklin streets. Its extent from north to south is 632 feet, and from east to west 600 feet. It is also handsomely laid out in gravelled walks, planted with trees, and thrown open to the public.

Penn Square, formerly called Centre Square, is at the intersection of Broad and High streets. This space, though formerly entire, was in 1828, by order of Councils, cut into four instict square, which have not yet been thrown open as public walks.

Logan Square extends from Race to Vine street, and from Schuylkill Fifth street, westward. This square is not yet improved.

Rittenhouse Square, is of the same dimensions as Logan Square, and lies between Walnut and Ann sts. extending westward from Schuylkill Fifth street, beyond Schuylkill Fourth street. Not yet improved.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The State House.—The circumstance of the Congress of the United States having held its deliberations within these walls, and the Declaration of Independence having been first publicly read from the steps, July 4, 1776, gives an interest to this building. It was commenced in the year 1729, and finished in 1735, and though externally plain, has a venerable appearance. The whole original expense was not quite six thousand pounds. The steeple by which it was formerly surmounted was taken down about the close of the revolution, but in 1828, a new one was erected, in order to restore as nearly as practicable this venerable building to its original features. It stands on Chesnut street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, and though formerly isolated, the whole square is now occupied by public buildings.

Bank of the United States.—This splendid building, which is composed externally of marble, stands on Chesnut street, between Fourth and Fifth streets. The foundation stone was laid April 19, 1819, and the building was completed in August, 1824. It is modelled after the Parthenon at Athens.

Bank of Pennsylvania.—This building has frequently been pronounced the chastest specimen of Grecian architecture in the country. The design is taken from the temple of Minerva at Athens. The whole building is composed of Pennsylvania marble. The first stone was laid in April, 1799, and the whole finished in 1801. It stands on Second street, between Chesnut and Walnut streets.

The Exchange, when completed will be among the most splendid edifices in the city. It is composed of white marble, and stands at the junction of Dock and Third streets. The Post Office is in this building.

The Arcade stands on Chesnut street, west of Sixth street, 100 feet front, and extends north 150 feet to Carpenter street. The first story is occupied as stores and shops, the second as offices, and the third by Peale's Museum of Natural Curiosities. The cellars are occupied as refectories. This building which is of white marble, was erected in 1826-'27.

The University and Medical College Halls stand in Ninth street, between Market and Chesnut streets, and are each 85 feet front, by 112 feet deep. Erected in 1830-'31.

The Mint stands on Chesnut street, near Broad street. It is of the Ionic order, built of white marble, presenting a front of 122 feet. It was commenced in 1829.

Pennsylvania Hospital, occupies an entire square between Spruce and Pine streets, and Eighth and Ninth streets, containing about four acres. The institution was founded in 1750, and in 1755 the east wing of the present commodious building was erected, since which many additions have been made. In the yard fronting on Pine street, is a leaden statue bronzed of William Penn, on a marble pedestal, who is represented holding a scroll, having part of the first sentence of the "Charter of Privileges," inscribed on it. This statue was presented by John Penn, of London, to the Hospital, in the year 1801.

The Marine Asylum stands on the eastern bank of the Schuylkill, a short distance south of the city line. It is 386 feet long, consisting of a portico 90 feet, supported by eight Ionic columns, and two wings each 148 feet.

The Alms House. A splendid and spacious building for the reception of the poor stands on the western bank of the Schuylkill, opposite Cedar street. It was commenced in 1831.

Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb is a spacious building, constructed of granite, located on the west side of Broad street, near Pine street. The whole front is 96 feet 6 inches, and 63 feet deep. The foundation was laid in May, 1824.

The Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania. The external appearance of this building conveys a vivid idea of the magnificent castles of Europe during the middle ages. The walls are twelve feet thick at the base, and the principal front 670 feet in length. The ground occupied by it contains about ten acres. The corner stone was laid May 22, 1823.

House of Refuge, stands at the corner of Francis' Lane and the Ridge Road, in a plot of ground 400 feet in length, and 231 in breadth. The main edifice is 92 feet front, by 30 deep. The corner stone was laid June 21, 1827.

Theatres.—There are three theatres in Philadelphia: the Chesnut street, the Walnut street, and the Arch street. That in Chesnut street is near the corner of Sixth street. It is calculated to accommodate more than 2000 persons. The present building was erected in 1822. The Walnut Street Theatre stands at the corner of Ninth street, and is 96 feet 6 inches front, by 146 feet deep. It was built in 1809. Arch Street Theatre stands a short distance west of Sixth street, and will contain about the same number as the Chesnut street house. It was built in 1828.

The Water Works.—Of all her public works, Philadelphia has most reason to be proud of that by which the Schuylkill water has been introduced throughout the city. In 1797, a plan was adopted which was to form a reservoir on the east bank of the Schuylkill, from which water was to be thrown by a steam engine into a tunnel, and thence carried to another engine house, at the centre of the city, where it was to be again raised by a second engine into a reservoir, from which it was to be distributed in pipes through the city. Ten years experience proved that a sufficient supply could not be obtained by this method, accordingly, in 1811, a new reservoir was created, and two large engines constructed, which, however, proved inadequate to supply the demand, although the annual expenses were enormous. In 1819, the project of damming the Schuylkill, and erecting the works at Fair Mount was commenced, the whole cost of which was in 1824, $432,512, and the entire amount expended on the successive operation, $1,443,585. The consumption in the summer months is about 3,000,000 gallons for 24 hours, and the iron pipes through which the water is conveyed to the city and districts, make together an extent of about sixty miles. The sum annually paid for the use of the water is upwards of 60,000 dollars, and the experience of years has shown that the power is sufficient to raise many times as much water as the city can possibly require for its consumption.*

FASHIONABLE RIDES, &c.

The Columbia Rail Road enters the city at the intersection of Broad and Callowhill streets, and its place of crossing the Schuylkill is about a mile and a half above Fair Mount Water Works, where a splendid bridge is now in progress. It is a fashionable and delightful ride in the cars to the river.

* On the 1st of January, 1833, there were in the city and liberties seventy-two and a half miles of Iron pipes. The receipts for water rent the present year, amount to $77,567 75. Expenditures of working the machinery, $1600—salaries, &c. $3500.

The Philadelphia and Norristown Rail Road enters the city at the intersection of Ninth and Buttonwood streets. It is completed to the upper part of Germantown. In the summer of 1832, pleasure cars were placed upon it, with horse power, since which time locomotive engines have been employed. The cars run six or eight times a day, and the ride is as delightful as it is novel.

Gray's Ferry, renowned as the junketing place of our forefathers—where our grandfathers and grandmothers danced and sung—where the scenery has a right pleasant smack of the antique about it, and where the floating bridge still swings as it did in the days of the revolution. To reach this spot, the tourist passes by one road the Naval Asylum and the Arsenal; by the other, the new Alms House, all worth a visit. Beyond the ferry we follow the Darby road, lined with the redoubts prepared for the reception of the English during the late war; turn off opposite the Blue Bell to Penrose's Ferry, making a pleasant ride of almost fifteen miles.

Laurel Hill—cross the Upper Ferry, and pass through the pretty village of Mantua. The Columbia Rail Road crosses the river at this place, and half an hour may be agreeably passed in examining the works and the scenery. At the Falls Bridge there are temptations of various kinds. The best plan is to push on to Flat Rock, passing the Wissahiccon, and through Manayunk.

The Wissahiccon is a volume of itself, unfortunately a sealed volume to ninety-nine in a hundred of the Philadelphians. There are several ways of getting at it; the stout, vigorous pedestrian, who, with his crabstick in hand, cares little about a good ramble, should make his way to Chesnut Hill, stretch beyond, to the intersection of the road with the creek, and there take the foot-path on the east bank. He has now about seven miles down the stream to the Schuylkill, and a walk unequalled for interest. A constant succession of waterfalls, rocks, precipices, rustic bridges, picturesque mills, meadows and streams present themselves. Pic-nic parties should leave their horses at the Falls of Schuylkill, and take the Wissahiccon at the mouth. The lovers of the picturesque, when fairly in the spot, will soon learn the geography; the study will amply repay them.

* This splendid building is one of the finest ornaments of Philadelphia. It excites the attention, and commands the admiration of our citizens and of strangers, while it reflects credit upon the enterprising stockholders, as well as upon the architect who planned it. The Exchange occupies a lot of ground bounded by Third, Walnut and Dock streets. The first floor is divided off into the Post Office, a Coffee Room and Bar Room, Stock Broker's Offices, and several offices of Insurance Companies. The Reading Room, on the second floor, will be very spacious and convenient. It is to be under the superintendence of J. M. Sanderson, Esq. a gentleman well calculated for the situation, he having for ten or twelve years past been the proprietor of an establishment of the same kind in this city.

WATCH.

Eastern District—Watch House corner of Second and Market street; number of watchmen employed is fifty.

Western District—Watch House corner of Filbert and Broad streets; number of watchmen employed is sixty-one—total in the city proper, one hundred and eleven.

The annual expense for lighting and watching is, $57,280 62, for the year 1832.

PRISONS.

There are at present in the city and county three prisons—one at the corner of Sixth and Walnut streets, for the reception of convicts—one at the south-west corner of Arch and Broad streets, for debtors and vagrants.

These two, however, are shortly to be taken down, and the spacious building now nearly completed, in Moyamensing, to be substituted in their place. The third is the Eastern Penitentiary, on Cherry Hill, and the most worthy of notice, not only on account of its architecture and arrangement, but for the admirable discipline which has been adopted to reclaim its inmates.

Surrounded by massy walls, stands the building for the confinement of convicts, from the centre of which diverge the cells, which are pierced throughout their whole length by galleries. A rotunda in the centre, occupied by the superintendent, enables him to overlook the whole interior of the prison. Small yards are attached to each cell, where the prisoners are permitted to enjoy the air and exercise for two hours every day. No communication is allowed between the convicts, nor are strangers permitted to see or visit them. Each occupies his separate cell, which contains an iron frame for his bed, a loom or other implements for the labour which has been assigned him, a chair, table, and every appliance to ensure the utmost possible cleanliness. Such as can read are furnished with a Bible, while every Sunday a chaplain preaches in the gallery, and is distinctly heard by the inmates of every cell. By means of flues, an equal and sufficient heat is kept up in the coldest weather. Although this system is a new experiment in prison discipline, it already promises to be attended with the happiest results. The criminal in silence and solitude, has an opportunity of looking back upon the errors which have thus degraded him, and comes back into the world doubly armed to resist the temptations which have misled him.

ALMS HOUSE.

The present Alms House is situated in Spruce street, on the south side, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, embracing the whole square. It is a plain brick building. This building will be taken down in a few years, and the inmates removed to the spacious and beautiful buildings now being erected on the opposite side of the river Schuylkill, when will be connected with the establishment, agricultural employment, as well as other occupations conducive to health, and to the reduction of pauperism.

SCHEDULE

Of Real Estate belonging to the city of Philadelphia.

1. The Market-Houses in High street, from the Delaware to Eighth street, eighth in number; and those in Second street, from Pine to Cedar street, two in number.

2. Five Public Squares, viz. Washington, Franklin, Penn, Logan, and Rittenhouse Squares.

3. The Independence Square, 510 feet in length from Chesnut to Walnut street, and $397\frac{1}{2}$ feet in breadth from Delaware Fifth to Sixth street, together with the State-House and City Hall at the south-west corner of Chesnut and Fifth streets, and the lots on which they are erected.

4. The public wharves and landings on the River Delaware, viz. Vine street wharf, which is leased to Mr. John Ford, for three years, commencing March 1, 1831, at an annual rent of $1150, payable quarterly.

Sassafras street wharf, rented January 1, 1829, to Captain Wilmon Whildin, for four years, at a rent originally of $877 per annum, but from which a reduction was made by resolution of Councils September 8, 1830, of $127 per annum, so that the rent now remains at $750 per annum.

Mulberry street wharf, leased July 24, 1826, to The Philadelphia, Dover, and Norfolk Steam-boat and Transportation Company, for ten years from that date, at an annual rent of $1600, payable quarterly.

High street wharf, under lease to Isaac Reeves and Isaiah Toy, for two years from February 15, 1831, at an annual rent of $1200, payable quarterly. In this lease a right of landing free of charge on the outer end and south side of said wharf is reserved for boats bringing produce for market and fresh fish as therein specified.

Chesnut street wharf leased to James Le Fevre for steam-boats, &c., August 15, 1825, for ten years from that date, at an annual rent of $2000, payable quarterly

Walnut street wharf not leased.

The Drawbridge wharf, occupied by the city as a wood wharf. Near this wharf is situated the following real estate owned by the city and leased from them, viz. the house on the Drawbridge commonly called "The Fish House," leased to Spencer Dewees for five years, from April 1, 1828, at an annual rent of $615, payable quarterly.

A lot on Water street north of the Drawbridge, leased to Gabriel Kern, Jr. and George A. Snyder, September 25, 1818, for twenty-one years from that date, at an annual rent of $250, payable semi-annually. On this lot Messrs. Kern & Snyder have erected a three storied brick store.

A lot commonly called "The Drawbridge Lot," bounded by Delaware Front street, Dock street, Spruce street, and Little Dock street; containing in breadth on the west side of Delaware Front street, from Dock to Spruce street, 102 feet; in length on Spruce street 277½ feet, and on Dock street 220 9-12 feet to Little Dock street.

Spruce street dock leased March 31, 1832, to Messrs. Henry Lelar & Son, for one year from that date, at a rent of $350 per annum, payable quarterly.

Many of the works in these various depots are scarce, and not easily procured at the present time. The library of the University contains a donation from the unfortunate Louis XVI., made during the Revolutionary war, all of which were printed at the royal printing office, and treat of mathematics, natural history, &c. The library of the Academy of Fine Arts contains a donation from Bonaparte. The libraries of the Hospital and Alms House, contain the best works on medicine, surgery, and the sciences; while those of the Academy of Natural Sciences and the Museum, are devoted to natural history and travels. The library of St. Augustine's Church, contains, we believe, the only complete copy of the "Fathers" in this country.

There are besides those regularly attached to regiments, several unattached, viz.

First City Troop, Capt. Hart, parade 35 men.

Infantry.

National Cadets, parade 25 men.

City Phalanx, Lt. Coane, Commanding, do 40

Brigade Inspector of First Brigade, Major D. Sharp.

Of the Corps mentioned, the following have armories, which are kept in the most beautiful order.

At Military Hall.

State Fencibles, 1st company; Philadelphia Grays; Lafayette Grays; Washington Blues—several more in contemplation.

At Market street Hall.

National Troops; Washington Grays.

SECOND BRIGADE.

The Second Brigade consists of the whole Militia and Volunteer force of the county; but there is nothing to prohibit the Volunteer corps, either of the city or county, from attaching themselves to either Brigade.—As independent corps, this right belongs to them.

The Second Brigade is commanded by Gen. John D. Goodwin. Staff.—William O. Cline.

There are several fine Regiments, mostly consisting of country troops, attached to this brigade; but, as the general distance of their respective locations is so far from the city, we seldom, except upon occasions of great public excitement, are gratified with a visit from them. That part of the Brigade which resides within the city limits, consists of Cavalry.

Washington Cavalry, Captain Barras.

Penn Township Troop, Captain Nixon.

Light Infantry.

Governor's Guards, Captain White.

Monroe Guards, Captain Streeper.

Northern Liberty Volunteers, Captain Goodman.

Penn Township Guards, Captain Lutz.

Lafayette Light Infantry, Captain Meady.

Mechanic Rifle, a new corps.

The Washington Rifle corps, and several others whose names we are unable to learn, are but merging into existence.

Of the country part of this Brigade, that which has fallen particularly under our notice is the Holmesburg troop, solely commanded by Captain Breck. This may be considered as among the most superior of its kind within the limits of the state; their strength being from eighty to one hundred men, rank and file, and their superior horsemanship and discipline being of a kind that may be equalled, but not surpassed.

The Germantown troop, Captain Smith.—This is another of those whose horsemanship and skill far surpass expectation created by appearance.

There are, likewise, the Germantown Blues, the Frankford Artillerists, the Oxford Light Infantry, and a very superior corps now under command of Colonel Bomeisler.

The field officers of this Brigade, as far as we remember, are Colonel Knap, Major Nathans, Col. Bomeisler.

Brigade Inspector.—Colonel R. Bartle.

ABSTRACT OF THE REGULATIONS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Collegiate Department.

The collegiate year begins on the 15th day of September, and terminates on the last Thursday of July.

It is divided into three terms, the first commencing on the 15th of September, and terminating on the 22d of December; the second commencing on the 7th of January, and terminating on the 15th of April; and the third commencing on the 1st of May, and terminating on the last Thursday in July. The vacations are, two weeks at the close of the first term, two weeks at the close of the second term, and six weeks at the close of the third term.

The students are distributed into four classes, viz.—the senior class, the junior class, the sophomore class, and the freshman class.

To be admitted into the freshman class, a student must be at least fourteen years of age. He must be qualified for examination on the following subjects and authors:

Latin.—Cæsar, Virgil, Sallust, Odes of Horace.

Greek.—New Testament, the Four Gospels, Acts, and the Epistles of Peter. Xenophon, first three books. Græca Minora, or Jacob's Greek Reader.

Quantity and scanning in each language.

English.—The elements of English grammar and of modern geography.

Arithmetic, including fractions and extraction of roots.

No student is admitted to advanced standing without the fullest preparation for the class into which he applies for admission.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION IN THE COLLEGE.

Freshman Class.

Mathematics.—Algebra, including simple and quadratic equations, surds, cubic, and biquadratic equations. Approximations. Converging series, &c.

Classics.—Five books of Livy. Horace's Satires. The Epistle to the Hebrews. Selections from Herodotus. Latin and Greek exercises. Roman and Grecian Antiquities.

English.—English Grammar (Lowth's English Grammar) and Geography reviewed. Ancient History, (Lardner's Outlines of History.) Readings in prose and poetry. Written translations from ancient authors. Declamation.

Sophomore Class.

Mathematics.—Elements of Geometry, (Legendre's Geometry.) Logarithms. Plane Trigonometry. Surveying, Mensuration, &c.

Classics.—Cicero de Oratore. Terence. Cicero's Orations. Horace's Epistles. Selections from Thucydides, Xenophon, Demosthenes, Lycias, Isocrates, Plato, and Ælian. Homer's Iliad, Latin and Greek exercises.

Natural Philosophy.—Elements of Mechanics, (Library of Useful Knowledge.)

English.—History, (Mackintosh's History of England.) Rhetoric, (Whately's Rhetoric.) English composition. Declamation.

Junior Class.

Mathematics.—Spherical Geometry and Trigonometry. Perspective Geography, including the Use of the Globes and Construction of Maps and Charts. Analytical Geometry, including Conic Sections. Elements of the differential Calculus, with applications.

Classics.—Art of Poetry. Juvenal. Quintilian's Institutes. Review of Selected Odes of Horace. Cicero de officiis. Selections from the Odyssey, Hesiod, Apollonius Rhodius, Sophocles, Euripides, Theocritus, Pindar, &c.

Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.—General doctrines of equilibrium and motion. Equilibrium and motion of solids and fluids, (Cambridge Mechanics.) Theory and Construction of Machines, (Application of Descriptive Geometry.) Heat, (Turner's Chemistry.) Electricity, including Galvanism. Magnetism. Electro-magnetism, (Library of Useful Knowledge.)

Philosophy of Chemistry. Inorganic Chemistry commenced, (Turner's Chemistry.)

English.—History continued. Moral Philosophy. Logic, (Whately's Logic.) English compositions. Written discussions.

Senior Class.

Mathematics.—Elements of the Integral Calculus, with applications. Variations of Lagrange. Analytical Mechanics.

Classics.—Former authors reviewed or completed. Longinus. Tacitus.

Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.—Astronomy. Optics, (Brewster's Optics.) Steam-engine, (Lardner on the Steam-engine and lectures.) Inorganic Chemistry completed. Organic Chemistry, (Turner's Chemistry.)

English.—Evidences of Natural and Revealed Religion. Intellectual Philosophy. Law of Nations and Political Law, (Kent's Commentaries.) English composition. Forensic discussions.

On every Saturday, members of the senior class deliver original essays in the chapel.

French, Spanish, and German, may be pursued if required by parents.

On each day of the week, except Saturday, there are not more than four nor less than three recitations of one hour each for every class. On Saturday each class recites once.

All the classes, except the senior class, recite both in the morning and afternoon.

The instructions of the College are conveyed in part by lectures, but principally by the study of the most approved text books, aided by the explanations of the professors. The diligence of the student is tested by rigid daily examinations. The character of each recitation is recorded, and the results communicated to parents or guardians in the middle or at the end of each term. At the end of each term, public examinations of the classes are held by the Faculty; and the students are classed in the order of merit.

Defective students are not allowed to proceed to a higher class, and incompetent students are dismissed from the institution.

Negligent and indolent students are transferred to a lower class when unable to proceed with the studies of their own class.

The terms for instruction in the regular studies of the College already enumerated, are $25 per term, payable in advance.

The modern languages are taught by approved instructors, at a moderate additional expense.

Proper boarding, including washing, &c. can be had in the city, for from $2 50 to $3 per week.

Students not from the city of Philadelphia, will, if it be requested by their parents, have one of the faculty appointed as a guardian, who will take charge of the disbursements, and attend to the comfort and well-doing of the individual.

The degree of Master of Arts may be conferred on the alumni of the University, bachelors in the arts of three years' standing, who shall apply for that honour. Any master of arts upon taking his degree, may deliver a public dissertation, at the commencement at which his degree is conferred, under the direction of the provost.

A public commencement for conferring degrees is held on the last Thursday in July.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The Medical Department is under the immediate government of the medical professors, who constitute the Faculty of Medicine, subject to the rules and statutes of the board of trustees.

The organization of the Medical Faculty is as follows. It consists of A professorship of Anatomy.

A professorship of the Institutes and Practice of Physic, and Clinical Medicine.

A professorship of Surgery.

A professor of Materia Medica and Pharmacy.

A professorship of Chemistry.

A professorship of Midwifery and the Diseases of Women and Children.

The Medical Faculty hold meetings for the purpose of arranging and conducting the business of their department, and establishing proper rules and regulations, (subject to the rules and statutes of the board of trustees,) for the preservation of order and decorum among the medical students. They keep regular minutes of their proceedings, which are at all times open to the inspection of the board of trustees.

The Medical Faculty appoint one of their own members to act as Dean, and it is his duty to keep the minutes of the faculty, to arrange and conduct the business of examining the candidates for medical degrees, to arrange and conduct the business of the faculty at their meetings, and to attend to correspondence.

The session for the medical lectures begins on the first Monday of November, and ends about the first day of March ensuing.

The commencement for conferring Medical Degrees is by a special mandamus of the board of trustees, held generally about the first day of April, or within as short a time as possible after the examinations of candidates are over.

Rules and Regulations for conferring the Degree of Doctor of Medicine.

I. Every candidate for this degree must have attained the age of twenty-one years—applied himself to the study of medicine for three years—and been during that time the private pupil, for two years at least, of a respectable practitioner of medicine.

II. The candidate must have attended two complete courses of the following lectures in this institution :

Anatomy.

Institutes and Practice of Physic and Clinical Medicine.

Materia Medica and Pharmacy.

Chemistry.

Surgery.

Midwifery, and the Diseases of Women and Children.

He must also have attended one course of Clinical instruction in the Philadelphia Alms-House Infirmary, or the Pennsylvania Hospital, or some other institution approved of by the Faculty of Medicine.

III. Medical students who have attended one complete course in a respectable medical school, where the attendance on two complete courses is necessary to a degree, and where the same branches are taught as in this, are permitted to become candidates by an attendance here for one full course only; and are by the latter placed upon the same privilege with students who have attended this school twice.

IV. Preparatory to obtaining any tickets, the student must matriculate, by having his name registered by the Dean of the Medical Faculty; and he shall not be considered to have attended a complete course of lectures, unless his tickets are taken on or before the third Monday of the session.

V. When candidates for a Medical Degree apply to the Dean for admission as such, they must exhibit their tickets to prove that the regulations have been complied with.

VI. Each candidate, at the time of his application, must deliver to the Dean of the Medical Faculty at least one week before his examination, and on or before the 10th of March, a thesis composed by himself, on some medical subject, and to be approved of by the professors. This thesis is referred to one of the professors, who shall examine the candidate upon it, in the presence of the Medical professors, and such of the trustees as choose to attend.

VII. When a candidate is rejected, his essay will be retained by the Medical Faculty.

VIII. When candidates withdraw their essays for any purpose whatever, they upon reapplication will be placed at the foot of the list.

IX. The dissertation must be in the candidate's own hand-writing, and must be written uniformly on paper of the same size, the alternate pages being left blank. General bad spelling in a thesis, or general inattention to the rules of grammar, precludes a candidate for examination for a degree.

X. All questions on the admissibility of a thesis, shall be determined some time previously to the day fixed for the examination of the candidate, who may have presented it.

XI. A thesis may be published if the candidate desire it, the permission of the professor by whom he was examined thereon being first obtained, but no alteration shall be made therein after such permission is given. A copy of the thesis must be deposited in the University library, before the degree is conferred.

XII. The voting on the case of each candidate is by private ballot, and two negative votes reject him.

XIII. Each candidate shall pay to the Dean of the Faculty the fees of graduation at the time of his examination.

XIV. Candidates who have passed their examinations, and in other respects complied with the regulations, must be reported by the Dean to the Provost, who in turn will communicate such report to the board of trustees, in order that if approved of by them, their mandamus be issued for conferring the degree at such time as they may think expedient.

XV. The degree will not be conferred upon a candidate who absents himself from the public commencement, except by a special permission of the Medical Faculty.

XVI. Graduates of respectable medical schools, by attending one complete course in this institution, are put upon the same footing with students who have attended two complete courses here.

XVII. Honorary degrees may be conferred at the instance of the Provost and Medical Faculty, or in pursuance of a resolution of the trustees; but no such degree shall be conferred unless the mandamus ordering it be signed by two-thirds of the whole number of trustees, or unless the candidate shall have been nominated at the board three months previously to taking the question on conferring the degree.

PHILADELPHIA AND COLUMBIA RAIL ROAD.

This rail road, as originally designed, extends from Philadelphia to the town of Columbia, on the Susquehannah river, and terminates at a point about thirteen miles below York Haven. The distance between these two places by the rail road is eighty-one and 3-4th miles. Following the line of the road from the intersection of Vine and Broad streets, Philadelphia, for rather more than two and a half miles, you arrive at the foot of the Schuylkill inclined plane, which is about fifty feet above mean tide, on which level the road runs to this point. This plane is about two thousand seven hundred feet in length, and its elevation from base to summit is about one hundred and eighty feet. There is at the western extremity of the road another inclined plane at Columbia. This is near two thousand feet in length, and has an elevation from foot to head of ninety feet. Stationary steam power will be resorted to, to overcome these acclivities. The distance from the head of the plane at Philadelphia to the head of that at Columbia, exceeds seventy-seven miles, and in the whole of this distance, the elevation will not exceed thirty feet to the mile, a degree of ascent overcome with the utmost facility by the aid of horse power alone, and for purposes of rail road transportation almost equivalent to a level. The average ascent, however, does not much exceed twenty-five feet to the mile.

The road is entirely graded, the cuttings and embankments generally slight. The highest point on the line is at "the Gap," about thirty miles from Columbia. This cut is about thirty-two feet deep. The bed of the road here is five hundred and sixty feet above mean tide, three hundred feet above the head of the plane at Schuylkill, and two hundred above that of Columbia.

This road has been located with a peculiar view to its adaptation to steam power for the purposes of transportations, and the shortest radius of curvature occurring any where on the line is about six hundred and thirty feet, being six degrees of curvature in a chord of sixty-six feet, and this most desirable end has been attained, with but slight cuttings and fillings.

The country through which the road winds its way is unsurpassed in interest and beauty. The whole line of the rail road, and the Lancaster turnpike pursuing the same course, and alternately crossing each other, is for many miles richly studded with magnificent and imposing mansions, delightful villas, substantial farm houses and capacious barns and granaries, and for 20 miles present to the enraptured gaze the appearance of one extensive and continuous village, the abode of health, industry, and content, the home of the happy, the virtuous, and the frugal. But few towns of any consequence are passed in its route. Many streams, creeks, and rivulets are traversed by it by means of wooden structures, of the most substantial description, designed tastefully, placed judiciously, in their mechanical execution remarkable for their neatness, and well calculated for their durability and security. The Schuylkill is crossed by a splendid viaduct of stone, 980 feet long.

The most remarkable structures of timber are over the Great and Little Conestoga, near Lancaster. The one is 1400 hundred feet in length, and 34 in breadth, resting on 10 piers—the other is about 1000 feet long. They are entirely completed. The road passes directly through the city of Lancaster, and from thence to its point of destination, Columbia, on the Susquehannah. Columbia is a thriving and flourishing town, with about 2500 inhabitants.

The original estimated cost of this work was $2,297,120, being about $28,173 per mile. From some departure, however, from the designed method of construction, the amount expended will, upon its completion, much exceed this amount, and it would not be hazarding much to say that the final cost of the eighty-three and 1-4th miles between Philadelphia and Columbia, will reach $3,000,000.

From Philadelphia westward, 22 miles of the road are completed and in constant use. At about this distance the Pennsylvania rail road, as this is frequently called, “par excellence,” receives in the South Valley Hill, two miles west of Paoli, the West Chester Rail Road. This road commences at the flourishing borough of West Chester, containing about 2000 inhabitants. The distance from that place to its intersection with the Pennsylvania Road is about ten miles.

Letters must be left at the Post Office within the time specified, to insure going in the mail of the day; and newspapers half an hour before that time, carefully put up and legibly directed, otherwise they will not be sent. As there are several places of the same name in the United States, it is necessary that the directions should be particular; the States should be distinguished, and when it might be doubtful, the Counties. When letters are not for a post town, the nearest post town ought to be mentioned. The office is open, daily, from sunrise to 8 P. M. except Sundays, the Fourth of July, and Christmas day, when it is open from 7½ to 8½ A. M., and from 6 to 7 P. M.

Persons wishing to pay postage when the office is shut, can inclose the money with the letter, directed to "The Post Office." Those who keep accounts with the Carriers or Office, will please inclose the letter directed in the same manner, with a request that the postage be charged to their account.

All notes or letters deposited in this office, directed to any part of this city, this side of Broad street, and to the populous parts of the Northern Liberties and Southwark, will be carried out with the Eastern, Southern and Western Mails.

POST OFFICE ARRANGEMENTS.

For the purpose of better serving the community, and to keep way with the rapid growth of our city, the Post Master has divided the city and liberties into thirteen districts, and assigned carriers to them, as follows:

District No. 1—Embracing the entire Northern Liberties, but no part of Vine street. Carrier, Powell Channell.

District No. 2—All the streets between Arch and Vine, east of Ninth and west of Front street, and both sides of Arch and Vine, excepting the square from Front to Second in Arch street, in Fourth and Fifth streets north of Market street. Carrier, William Bewley and assistant.

District No. 3—Second street from Chesnut to Arch street, Front street from Chesnut to Vine, Market and Arch streets from Second street to the Delaware, Vine street from Front street to the Delaware, the Wharf and Water street from Chesnut to Vine streets. Carrier, Abraham Cook and assistant.

District No. 4—Chesnut street from Third to Fourth street, Fourth street from Chesnut to Market, Third street from Chesnut to Arch street, Market street from Second to Fifth street. Carrier, John J. M'Cahen.

District No. 5—Fifth street from Chesnut to Market street, Market street from Fifth to Ninth street, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth streets, from Chesnut to Arch streets, and all intermediate streets. Carrier, Josiah Watson.

District No. 6—Walnut street from Second to Seventh street, Chesnut street from Second to Third, and from Fourth to Seventh streets; Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth streets, from Chesnut to Walnut street. Carrier, Thomas F. Goodwin and assistant.

District No. 7—Chesnut street from Second street to the Delaware, the wharf from Chesnut street to Pine street, Pine street to Second street, Second street from Pine to Spruce street, all east of Second street from Chesnut to Pine street. Carrier, Jedediah Allen.

District No. 8—Second street from Walnut to Spruce street, all west of Second street from Walnut to South street, and all east of Sixth street, including Sixth street, all north of South, and south of Walnut street, within the above limits. Carrier, Alexander Robb.

District No. 9—Second street all south of Pine street, Front street and the wharf all south of Pine street, Cedar street from the wharf to Sixth street, Sixth street included, and all south of Cedar street within the above prescribed limits. Carrier, J. P. Colecord.

District No. 10—All west of Sixth street, east of Tenth street, including Tenth street, south of Chesnut street, excepting from Sixth to Seventh street, as provided for in District No. 6, Chesnut street from Seventh to Tenth streets. Carrier, Jacob S. Colladay.

District No. 11—Ninth street from Chesnut to Vine, Vine street from Ninth to Twelfth, Twelfth street from Vine to Chesnut, and all intermediate streets. Carrier, Henry L. Coryell.

District No. 12—All south of Market street from Twelfth street to the Schuylkill, and all south of Chesnut street, it included, west of Tenth street. Carrier, William Justice.

District No. 13—Market street from Twelfth street to Schuylkill, all north of Market, south of Vine street, it included, and west of Twelfth street. Carrier, Henry Hamings.

The above arrangement commenced operation on the 1st of August last. All notes or letters deposited in this office, directed to any part of the city, or the populous parts of the liberties, will be carried out three times a day.
